A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

As I am writing this, Local Arrangements Committee Chair, Erica Powell, Continuing Education Committee Chair, Roumiana Kartzakov, Vice President Ellie Bushousen, and I are working on the theme, local activities, and CE opportunities for the FHSLA Conference in April 2011. (Past President Nancy Schaefer and Allison Howard, along with many other FHSLA board members have been quite helpful in answering my many questions, too!)

There will be no separate FHSLA meeting in 2010. However, we will meet and give out awards during the SC/MLA meeting in November 2010. On Friday, November 12th, the FHSLA Strategic Planning Committee (SPC) will meet, and on Sunday, November 14th, we will have a "social" get-together open to all the FHSLA membership. The "social" will be from 4:30PM-6PM and will include some FHSLA business, including discussion of any relevant matters from the FHSLA SPC meeting. Anyone wishing to dine with fellow FHSLA members after the social is welcome to meet them in the same room (Plaza A) at 6PM.

SC/MLA has donated space and a table for FHSLA to have a membership drive table. Maria Melssen, FHSLA Membership Chair, is eager to create an eye-catching display to attract new and returning FHSLA members. If you are interested in staffing her table, please send her an email: mariamelssen@gmail.com.

As FHSLA President, I am interested in your concerns and ideas for FHSLA and librarianship. Please feel free to call me (305-243-6648) or email me (tfeddern@med.miami.edu), whether you want the association to possibly take action on an issue, or if you just want a sympathetic ear.

Sincerely yours,

Tanya Feddern-Bekcan
FHSLA President

From the Membership Committee

Relocating from small town Maumee, Ohio to big city Miami, Florida was both exciting and a culture shock: going from fall leaves, snow, and the occasional expressway delay to sand, palm trees, and daily hour long traffic jams were just a few of the surprises. But the greatest surprise? The welcoming and caring spirit of Florida librarians. Our 100 members provide not only a kind, welcoming spirit, but a wealth of knowledge, experience, and model leadership.

September marked my two year anniversary with FHSLA and I am proud to be your new Membership Committee Chair. My goal is to reach out to those Florida health science librarians who have yet to take advantage of all that we have to offer, and to connect with each of you. I want to find out what motivated you to join FHSLA, what brings you back each year, and what we can offer to keep you coming back. I invite you to share with me your FHSLA story: feel free to send me an email, give me a call, or chat at SC/MLA's Annual Meeting in St. Petersburg in November. At the end of this newsletter you will find our updated membership form. I encourage you to renew early and invite a friend to join. And keep an eye on the listserv: there just might be another membership raffle on the horizon...

FROM AROUND THE STATE

Harriet F. Ginsburg Library, University of Central Florida

Events and Activities

In June 2010 the Harriet F. Ginsburg Health Sciences Library at UCF's College of Medicine moved into its new home in the 170,000 square foot medical education building at the emerging "medical city" at Lake Nona. The new library space was designed as a true Information Commons, with an open front desk where staff provide both circulation and reference services, and which is integrated into the wide open space.

The library also features a quiet study area behind an expansive glass wall, creating two distinct study spaces under one roof. The highlight of the space is truly the lush green nature preserve visible from all of the library's windows, which creates a serene backdrop for those using the library.

This semester the Harriet F. Ginsburg Health Sciences Library proudly presented the College of Medicine's sixty first year students and its charter class of forty students with their own iPod touches. The mobile devices were loaded with DynaMed, Epocrates and Stedman's Medical Dictionary, and will allow students to have instant access to Evidence Based Medicine resources at the point of care. The library hopes its successful iPod touch deployment will further the College of Medicine's vision of being the nation's premiere 21st century College of Medicine.

In July the Harriet F. Ginsburg Library hosted the National Library of Medicine's traveling exhibit, "Harry Potter's World: Renaissance Science, Magic and Medicine." The library introduced Dr. Mark A. Waddell, a historian of early modern science and medicine who teaches at the Lyman Briggs College of Sciences at Michigan State University, as guest speaker for the opening of the exhibit on August 12, 2010. Dr. Waddell spoke about "The Magical Roots of Modern Science and Medicine."

Faith Schafer, Library Services Coordinator, also spearheaded the creation of an accompanying display in the library highlighting fun aspects from the popular Harry Potter books. Both displays have been drawing in curious visitors to the library. For more information about the exhibit, see: <http://www.harrypottersworld.med.ucf.edu/>

Personnel

The Harriet F. Ginsburg Health Sciences Library lost a member of its team in June 2010 with the untimely passing of Cynthia Kahn, Head of Public Services. Cynthia was remembered at a memorial service held by UCF's College of Medicine on July 29, 2010, after which Dr. Deborah German, dean of the college, placed a plaque with Cynthia's name in front of a beautiful citrus tree planted on the Tavistock Green in her memory. The library staff presented the Kahn family with a sunflower wind chime to remind her family of Cynthia's spirit.

She manages the library's statistics, handles most of the library's cataloging, and administers interlibrary loan requests. Lindsay is working towards her goal of becoming a licensed pharmacist.

Liaisons will visit faculty in their office, clinic or lab for private one-on-one consultations on a variety of topics, including search techniques, bibliographic reference management, relevant mobile device applications, useful productivity tools, statistics and data sources, databases and journals, and consumer health resources.

During the week of March 8 – 12, the HSC Library hosted the University of Florida Health Science Center Symposium for Teaching & Learning with Technology. This week-long series of events focused on effective uses of technology to improve learning outcomes and featured presenters from various disciplines within the Health Sciences and beyond. The sessions provided an opportunity to recognize innovative faculty, supplied a forum for professors to share their work with those in other disciplines, and fostered interdisciplinary collaborations on future projects. New Department of Health Informatics

The University of Miami Miller School of Medicine has announced the establishment of a Department of Health Informatics from what was previously the Department of Medical Library and Biomedical Communications. http://ww2.med.miami.edu/mednews/news_page/departments-new-name-brings-recognition-and-opportunities-to-those-working-

The change was initiated by medical librarians, approved by the Medical Library Faculty Committee, the Dean of the School of Medicine, the Medical School Faculty Council and the Faculty Senate, and signed into effect by University President, Dr. Donna Shalala. Medical librarians have already received faculty appointments in the new department, and will be joined shortly by other University of Miami faculty working in informatics.

Dr. Mary Moore, Chair of the Department of Health Informatics, envisions it as an umbrella department, which will bring together those working in health informatics - health care providers, librarians, informaticians and researchers - and provide them with support and opportunities for collaboration and recognition. Shimberg Health Sciences Library hosted a 1-day Emergency Preparedness Workshop in June with PJ Grier, Network Services Coordinator, NN/LM SEA. Coordinated by Allison M. Howard, MLIS, AHIP, thirteen participants from medical, law and public libraries attended. Various emergency scenarios and how we would handle them, service continuity plans, and emergency mutual aid procedures were all discussed. We viewed a short video entitled Shots Fired on Campus: When Lightning Strikes by the Center for Personal Protection and Safety. Two of the librarians shared how they had used this video and did live drills on their campus with the assistance of the local police department. Both

The exhibit was developed by the National Library of Medicine in collaboration with the American Library Association.
